There are many wonderful reasons for building a new house that is designed specifically for you. It creates a unique opportunity to design a dwelling to suit your own specific needs and aesthetic sensibilities. Do you wish to entertain as well as cook in your kitchen? Do you need built-in shelves to house your vast library? Is there a need for special spaces for exercise or musical performance or to display an art collection?

Great houses are made by understanding each nuance of a site, no matter how difficult, and expertly fitting the house to it. Clients who are aware of their environment and needs and can convey those needs to the designer make even greater houses. Spend some time filling out this program. The more thoughtful you are with your physical and artistic requirements, the more expert we can be in working with you to create a house that is harmonious in both function and beauty.
